In addition, any fees attendant to the transfer of client assets may be charged by the Clearing Broker Dealer to the client account prior to such transfer.
- E. Neither DMK nor any of its supervised persons receives compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products with the exception of insurance products. This policy eliminates any real or perceived conflict of interest.

Item 6 – Performance Based Fees

DMK does not charge performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client).

Item 7 – Types of Clients

DMK provides investment advice to individuals, trusts, companies and other qualified, potential investors. DMK accepts accounts valued at minimum value of $10,000.00. This requirement may be waived for “household” accounts.

Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

DMK carefully monitors all levels of risk that have historically affected the markets. Our main focus is on market conditions caused by Federal Reserve Bank interest rate increases or reductions, Gross Domestic Production increases or reductions, unemployment figures, and other factors that may affect our emotionally sensitive markets.

However, through a series of comprehensive interviews, the client’s suitability and risk tolerance is determined and investment vehicles are recommended as a result. In addition, the client’s “time horizon” is ascertained and factored into any recommendation that is presented for consideration.

Investment models are based on market performance of Exchange-Traded Funds and Mutual Funds. Models do not include Options, Futures, Commodities or any highly volatile securities thereby maintaining low levels of risk in client portfolios. Investment vehicles are reviewed daily and portfolios rebalanced as necessary to fulfil the asset allocation percentages; Morningstar and other sources are relied upon for reporting performance.

- A. DMK is a growth manager and basically use technical analysis using such tools as Morningstar and Y-Charts supplemented with mutual fund company reports on the sectors we look at and the funds they have available. Investing in securities involves a risk of loss, as discussed above, and should be approached prudently.

- B. Since DMK strictly uses mutual funds and ETF's we do not believe this strategy creates excessive risk. Whichever benchmark, we use Beta (measurement of risk) rarely exceeding 1.20 and is usually under 1.00. By those accepted standards there is no undue risk in our portfolios since we tend to be conservative in our investment models. Trading frequency does not affect investment performance since all managed account trading is absent commission or transaction charges.
- C. DMK uses Mutual Funds and ETF's, strictly. We feel that we do not take unusual risks using these types of securities.

Risks of Loss

Risks of Loss Mutual Funds and Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs)

An investment in a mutual fund or ETF involves risk, including the loss of principal. Mutual fund and ETF shareholders are necessarily subject to the risks stemming from the individual issuers of the fund's underlying portfolio securities. Such shareholders are also liable for taxes on any fund-level capital gains, as mutual funds and ETFs are required by law to distribute capital gains in the event, they sell securities for a profit that cannot be offset by a corresponding loss.

Shares of mutual funds are generally distributed and redeemed on an ongoing basis by the fund itself or a broker acting on its behalf. The trading price at which a share is transacted is equal to a fund's stated daily per share net asset value ("NAV"), plus any shareholders' fees (e.g., sales loads, purchase fees, redemption fees). The per-share NAV of a mutual fund is calculated at the end of each business day, although the actual NAV fluctuates with intraday changes to the market value of the fund's holdings. The trading prices of a mutual fund's shares may differ significantly from the NAV during periods of market volatility, which may, among other factors, lead to the mutual fund's shares trading at a premium or discount to NAV.

Shares of ETFs are listed on securities exchanges and transacted at negotiated prices in the secondary market. Generally, ETF shares trade at or near their most recent NAV, which is generally calculated at least once daily for indexed-based ETFs and more frequently for actively managed ETFs. However, certain inefficiencies may cause the shares to trade at a premium or discount to their pro rata NAV. There is also no guarantee that an active secondary market for such shares will develop or continue to exist. Generally, an ETF only redeems shares when aggregated as creation units (usually 50,000 shares or more). Therefore, if a liquid secondary market ceases to exist for shares of a particular ETF, a shareholder may have no way to dispose of such shares.

Item 9 – Disciplinary Information

- C. There are no relationships or arrangements that are material to our advisory business or to our clients that any of our management persons have with any related person.
- D. DMK does not recommend or select other investment advisors for our clients.

Item 11 – Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

DMK Advisor Group, Inc. conducts its business with strict adherence to FINRA Rule 2010, Standards of Commercial Honor and Principles of Trade and acts as a fiduciary on behalf of our clients.

“A member, in the conduct of its business, shall observe high standards of commercial honor and just and equitable principles of trade.”

DMK's interpretation includes strict adherence to Rule 2010 and ensures the confidentiality of client information, a prohibition on insider trading, a prohibition of rumor mongering, restrictions on the acceptance of significant gifts and the reporting of certain gifts and business entertainment items, and personal securities trading procedures, among other things.

- A. The firm observes a Code of Ethics in accordance with SEC Rule 204A-1. Such Code of Ethics, among other things, requires associated persons of the firm to report personal securities holdings and transactions. Such personal securities holdings and transactions are reviewed on a quarterly basis by the Chief Compliance Officer of the firm.

It is further noted that Firm is in and shall continue to be in total compliance with The Insider Trading and Securities Fraud Enforcement Act of 1988. Specifically, Firm has adopted a firm wide policy statement outlining insider trading compliance by Firm and its associated persons and other employees. This statement has been distributed to all associated persons and other employees of Firm and has been signed and dated by each such person. A copy of such firm wide policy is left with such person and the original is maintained in a master file. Further, Firm has adopted a written supervisory procedures statement highlighting the steps which shall be taken to implement the firm wide policy. These materials are also distributed to all associated persons and other employees of Firm, are signed, dated and filed with the insider trading compliance materials. There are provisions adopted for (1) restricting access to files, (2) providing continuing education, (3) restricting and/or monitoring trading on those securities of which Firm's employees may have non-public information, (4) requiring all of Firm's employees to conduct their trading through a specified broker or reporting all transactions promptly to Firm, and (5) monitoring the securities trading of the firm and its employees and associated persons.

Firm or any related person(s) may have an interest or position in a certain security(ies) which may also be recommended to a client.

As these situations may represent a conflict of interest, Firm has established the following restrictions, in order to ensure its fiduciary responsibilities:

- 1) A director, officer or employee of Firm shall not buy or sell securities for their personal portfolio(s) where their decision is substantially derived, in whole or in part, by reason of his or her employment unless the information is also available to the investing public on reasonable inquiry. No person of Firm shall prefer his or her own interest to that of the advisory client.
- 2) Firm maintains a list of all securities holdings for itself, and anyone associated with this advisory practice. These holdings are reviewed on a regular basis by Stephen Kohn.
- 3) Firm requires that all individuals must act in accordance with all applicable federal and state regulations governing registered investment advisory practices.
- 4) Any individual not in observance of the above may be subject to termination. DMK anticipates that, in appropriate circumstances, consistent with clients' investment objectives, it will cause accounts over which DMK has management authority to effect, and will recommend to investment advisory clients or prospective clients, the purchase or sale of securities in which DMK, its affiliates and/or clients, directly or indirectly, have a position of interest. DMK's employees and persons associated with DMK are required to follow the financial industry's Code of Ethics. Subject to satisfying this policy and applicable laws, officers, directors and employees of DMK and its affiliates may trade for their own accounts in securities which are recommended to and/or purchased for DMK's clients. The Code of Ethics is designed to assure that the personal securities transactions, activities and interests of the employees of DMK will not interfere with (i) making decisions in the best interest of advisory clients and (ii) implementing such decisions while, at the same time, allowing employees to invest for their own accounts. Under the Code certain classes of securities have been designated as exempt transactions, based upon a determination that these would not materially interfere with the best interest of DMK's clients. In addition, the Code requires pre-clearance of many transactions, and restricts trading in close proximity to client trading activity. Nonetheless, because the Code of Ethics in some circumstances would permit employees to invest in the same securities as clients, there is a possibility that employees might benefit from market activity by a client in a security held by an employee. Employee trading is continually monitored under the Code of Ethics standards, and to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between DMK and its clients.

Certain affiliated accounts may trade in the same securities with client accounts on an aggregated basis when consistent with DMK's obligation of best execution. In such circumstances, the affiliated and client accounts will share commission costs equally and receive securities at a total average price. DMK will retain records of the trade order (specifying each participating account) and its allocation, which will be completed prior to the entry of the aggregated order. Completed orders will be allocated as specified in the initial trade order. Partially filled orders will be allocated on a pro rata basis. Any exceptions will be explained on the Order.

DMK's clients or prospective clients may request a copy of Rule 2010 by contacting Stephen A. Kohn via email (stephen.kohn@dmkadvisorgroup.com) or logging onto the FINRA Website. (http://finra.complinet.com/en/display/display.html?rbid=2403&element_id=5504)

It is DMK's policy that the firm will not affect any principal or agency cross securities transactions for client accounts. DMK will also not cross trades between client accounts. Principal transactions are generally defined as transactions where an adviser, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliated broker-dealer, buys from or sells any security to any advisory client. A principal transaction may also be deemed to have occurred if a security is crossed between an affiliated hedge fund and another client account. An agency cross transaction is defined as a transaction where a person acts as an investment adviser in relation to a transaction in which the investment adviser, or any person controlled by or under common control with the investment adviser, acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction. Agency cross transactions may arise where an adviser is dually registered as a broker-dealer or has an affiliated broker-dealer.
